

Anamnesis

The Colorado College Journal of Philosophy

Volume IV • 2019

Call for Papers

Anamnesis is a student-run journal publishing undergraduate essays in philosophy. Students across all disciplines are encouraged to submit, so long as their essays grapple with philosophical issues. This journal seeks to give undergraduates the opportunity to share academic work with a larger readership and to engender thoughtful discussion on philosophical topics. In contrast to highly specialized graduate-level philosophy journals, we hope to publish accessible yet rigorous contributions to the discipline.

Submission Guidelines

Theme: The theme for this issue of Anamnesis will be “Perspectives.” These papers will focus around philosophical conclusions that are arrived at through subjective experience.

Format: 12 point Times New Roman font, 4,000 word maximum (excluding footnotes). There is no minimum word count. Please provide your paper title, name, pronouns, and major along with your submission.

Citation Format: Either MLA or Chicago Citation Style are acceptable.

Originality: All material must be original and cannot have been published elsewhere. If you plan on submitting your paper to publications other than Anamnesis, keep us informed about its publication status.

Deadline: All papers must be submitted via email to anamnesis@coloradocollege.edu no later than February 13th, 2019

We will accept a maximum of two submissions per student, and we will lightly edit all submissions in cooperation with authors.
